Former Anglican priest Gibbs pleads guilty to two more sex offences

Posted By Linda Richardson

Posted 7 months ago

Former Anglican priest Kenneth Gibbs, imprisoned last month for molesting five young girls decades ago, has been convicted of two more dated sexual offences.

Gibbs, 77, pleaded guilty earlier this week to two counts of indecent assault in a Timmins courtroom.

The offences occurred in Chapleau where he served as minister of St. John's Anglican Church from 1966 to 1971.

Assistant Crown attorney Gerrit Verbeek told The Star the offences involved a girl who was five or six and another who was 11 or 12.

Gibbs was sentenced to a further four months in prison.

He was given two-for-one credit for the month he has spent in solitary confinement at Monteith jail.

That means two months will be tacked on to the three and half year prison term he received Dec. 3 in Sault Ste. Marie.

The Belleville resident was convicted in November of eight counts of indecent assault involving five young female parishioners.

The sex offences occurred in the 1960s and 1970s in Chapleau and in Elliot Lake, where Gibbs was minister of St. Peter the Apostle church.

HORNEPAYNE CENTRE, 42 DAYS, TWENTY-NINE FOR BANK

There are only forty-two days left before the Hornepayne Town Centre closes its doors, and even less, twenty-nine days before the CIBC Bank pulls up stake and moves all accounts left to its Branch in Hearst. While both events have mostly

The Melodic Noise of 'Glee'

Once upon a time, high school drama was bleak and boring with the common jocks vs. geeks plot taking up most of preteen entertainment. But then, Disney came up with the "he said, she said" tale choreographed to the tune of sappy and snappy slightly passable pop songs. In a post High School Mus
